The information above is a preview of coming attractions at our Lake Martin campus.

Recently, I had the opportunity to present the mission of Children's Harbor to a state-wide organization and the key point that I made is that we are very unique in not only our direct services to seriously ill children and their families at Children's Hospital but also the role we play with other not-for-profit organizations.

Because of our donors, all of our direct services are free to the families and our facility donations to other not-for-profit organizations enable them to provide quality camps and retreats at a fraction of the cost. The following statement by Kara Bishop who is a mom with a ventilator dependent child who founded a camp for other families who have ventilator dependent children will sum up our strategic importance.

"I have a son Cory who is on a ventilator.... I am now a single parent who works full time and I run this foundation in my spare time. Between taking care of my son and 13 year old daughter there isn't much time left to raise money for our programs so Children's Harbor is a God-send to us. The free service that is provided to us is more important than you will ever know.... This camp is what holds our group together. We are so thankful to Children's Harbor and their donors who make this possible for our special families.
